The crew of the United States protected cruiser Albany of which Capt. H. T. Mayo, formerly of Burlington, is commander, has been awarded a huge copper trophy by the United States government for proficiency in gun-

It is now learned that Charles Hunsdon of Shoreham colonel of the Eleventh Vermont Heavy Artillery, in the Civil war, who has been mentioned among the surveying colonels of that war, died in the state of New York about four years ago.

Careless boys, shooting supposedly in the vicinity of the cemetery at St. Johnsbury almost killed Mrs. Charles B. Marshall who was crossing a street with her baby in her arms. A bullet from a 22 calibre rifle struck her on the shoulder, whirled her around and burned a hole in her coat.

The dedicatory exercises for the S. L. Griffith Memorial library will be held at the Congregational church. Danby, next Wednesday afternoon. The Hon. W. J. Bigelow, mayor of Bur lington and the Rev. H. J. Maillet of East Dorset will give addresses

The Montpelier overseer of the poor reports a large number of tramps in that vicinity. All tell the same story of being unable to find work and of hunger, although the farmers in that vicinity who are daily in town are of fering good wages in the sugar or chards for men who are able and will-

A riot was narrowly averted at Montpelier when Con Sullivan walked there from Barre on a wager. Five hundred people saw the finish and his friends went wild when the referees decided that Sullivan had run part of the way. The walking was bad and Sullivan, dressed in tights and with arms and legs bare, was accompanied by a pacer and friends in teams. The start was made in the presence of 3000

The two seines operated just over the Canadian line opposite the mouth of the middle branch of the Missisquoi river, one by Glasgow and Chilton, of Clarenceville, and the other by the Millers of the same place, were pulled out for good this week on account, it is said, of the licenses being revoked by the Dominion government. These nets were very near the Vermont The two seines off the west branch of the river are still operated by the Millers and with good cuccess since the recent thaw started the currents, causing a freer movement of fish. About fifty pike, it is reported, are taken at a haul with these nets.

HOW DOES THE HEN KNOW HOW!

Conduct of Biddy Might Give a Pointer to Some Men.

The Farmers' Tribune it is which has closely watched the barnyard queen and has printed its observations, together with some engaging bits of sageness:

"A person who has watched the big biddy playing the chicken game on top of 13 unripe eggs has seen her sit constantly for four days, being off only a few minutes at a time to get a bit to eat, and sometimes not coming off at all for three days. The third day he has seen her turn the eggs with her bill, and thereafter turn them every every night and morning up to the eighteenth day. She will rush out after the morning sun has got things warm, and eat a splendid long breakfast on the morning of the fifth day. The amateur seeing this for the first time will get anxious, fearing the eggs will cool off. Of course they will. She knows it, all right.

Possibly this was not meant to be the occasion of much that is serious. Yet somehow it gives us confidence in the scheme of things, and also makes us feel that we ourselves need not hesitate so much about taking a vacation; very likely the world would toddle along "all right" without us for a day.-Collier's Weekly.

Naming Boys.

"Whatever you do, never name a boy after yourself," was a saying of Uncle Lafe Hume of Columbia, and it is a wise conclusion for more reasons than one.

In after years the father and son are referred to as "Big John," or "Ragged John," "Little John So and So" or "Old Tom and Young Tom," and "Big Dick," "Little Peel Head" and the like. In the family the youngster is generally called "brother, "babe," "buss," "Dock Cud" or "Maunch," and the like, while the old gentleman is dubbed "the old man," or "dad," "pap," or "paw." Just as well give your boy a nickname at the start as to name him after yourself.

A Misunderstanding.

"This is the chicken salad," said the caterer's boy, as he delivered the package. "I guess it was your husband that ordered it sent, ma'am." "Yes," said little Mrs. Bridey.

"Here's your money. Now, how do you make it?" "Oh! I don't know anything about that, ma'am." "You don't? Why, my husband told me if I paid you you'd give me the re-

Girl Evidently What Might Be Called a "Two-Speed Singer."

There was "no halfway work" about Abner Riggs' praise for anything he approved. Consequently, the person who asked him about his niece's musical ability was prepared for an enthusiastic answer.

"That girl is chock-full o' music," announced Mr. Riggs, "chock-full and running over with it. In my opinion she will be the greatest musician that's ever come out of New England, if not of these United States.

"Sings like a bird, plays the plano, melodeon, pipe organ, banjo and guitar. Most anything that can be played that girl plays it-right off, as you might say. Lately she's taken up the fiddle and cornet, and she's doing fine work with both of 'em."

"She must be remarkably gifted," said the listener. "Is her voice soprano or contralto?" "Either," said Mr. Riggs promptly, "just according to what's wanted and the nature of the song; she's got both qualities. And as for playing-well now, I tell you, that girl can get more music out of an iron spoon and a tin dipper than most could out of the best harmonica that was ever made!" -Youth's Companion.

Domestic Pleasantries.

WOULD DIE WHERE HE PLEASED.

Overbearing Star Met His Match Western Actor.

Once when Macready was performing at the theater at Mobile, Ala., his manner at rehearsal displeased one of the actors, a native American of pure western type. This Claudius in "Hamlet," resolved to "get even" with the star for many supposed offenses, and in this way he carried out his purpose. When in the last scene Hamlet stabbed the usurper, he reeled forward, and. after a most spasmodic finish, stretched himself out precisely in the place Hamlet required for his own death. Macready, much annoyed, whispered freely:

"Die further up the stage, sir." The monarch lay insensible, upon which in a still louder voice, the Hamlet growled:

"Die further up the stage, sir." Hereupon the Claudius, sitting up, observed:

"I believe I'm king here, and I'll die where I please." The tragedy concluded without more
